Re: Annual Report on Campus Sexual Assault in Delaware

Dear Governor Meyer and Members of the General Assembly,

Pursuant to 14 Del. C. §9006A, the Delaware Department of Justice (DOJ) has prepared and now submits the annual report on campus sexual assault in Delaware, reflecting the 2024 calendar year. All five schools (Delaware State University, Delaware Technical Community College, Goldey-Beacom College, the University of Delaware, and Wilmington University) met the criteria to report to DOJ. We extend our thanks to them, their public safety agencies, where applicable, and the Statistical Analysis Center (SAC) for providing the required information needed for this report.

In accordance with the amendments to 14 Del. C. §9006A imposed by House Bill 308, which went into effect on June 30, 2025, a five-year analysis of each institution is presented. Further, the opportunity provided by the new directives of the amendment was taken to revamp the reporting portal and the presentation of this report. Improvements include:

- The DOJ's reporting portal was revamped to collect data more logically, reducing the possibility of error.
- A banner cautioning institutions not to upload materials with personal identifying information (PII) regarding the complainant or respondent into the reporting portal to protect the privacy of all individuals was added. All submissions were subsequently reviewed for PII, and redactions were made where necessary.
- The complaint process was streamlined and improved so that complaints are received by multiple DOJ staff to ensure they are addressed in a timely fashion.
- The elimination of redundant information in the final report. A brief synopsis rather than a verbatim regurgitation of the schools' submissions is provided. The school submission is still provided, however.

- A scoring metric was devised to assess institutions' compliance with the regulations and areas for improvement were identified.

Schools were asked to report on their compliance with training requirements, the number of sexual assaults reported, and how such reports were handled. Additionally, schools with public safety agencies were asked to disclose the number of criminal sex offenses reported.

The key findings include:

- Training & Prevention
 - All institutions provide annual sexual-misconduct training, but quality and reach vary sharply.
 - Wilmington University and Goldey Beacom College achieved 100 percent student and employee completion with comprehensive, assessment-based programs.
 - Other campuses, notably Delaware State University and Delaware Technical Community College, deliver strong content but have lower completion rates that undermine impact.
- Reporting Patterns
 - Students are reporting incidents at significant rates, especially at the University of Delaware, which recorded 51 sexual-assault reports in 2024—far more than any other institution.
 - Even small or commuter schools receive steady reports, demonstrating that awareness and willingness to report are not the central barriers.
- Outcomes After a Report
 - Very few reports lead to disciplinary action or prosecution.
 - Example: of UD's 21 campus-police cases, only three resulted in student-conduct penalties and three no-trespass orders.
 - Statewide, only a small fraction of more than 100 combined reports each year end in any formal sanction.
- Core Insight: Delaware has succeeded in building a culture of disclosure but lacks a system that turns reports into resolutions. The gap between reporting and accountability—caused by slow investigations, limited evidence collection, and survivor attrition—now represents the state's most pressing challenge.

A reader may notice a difference between the number of campus crime reports and the number of campus reports of sexual assault. The figures do not include crime reports made to non-campus police agencies. Schools generally track the number of reports they receive, regardless of whether the student proceeds with a formal school complaint, criminal complaint, or seeks resources. It is also possible for actions to constitute sexual assault as defined in §9001A but not meet the elements necessary to charge a criminal sex offense.

In addition, it is important to highlight that sexual assault has historically been unreported or underreported. Increased reporting of sexual assault can reflect the cultural shift in our community to take cases of sexual assault seriously.

Finally, per the statute, DOJ is required to present the information as it is received from the schools, their public safety agencies, and the SAC. Thus, the information contained herein has not been, and should not be, interpreted to have been verified by DOJ.

Respectfully,

Chief of Staff, Deldra Gregory-Colvin

Methodology

Training programs addressing Title IX, the Clery Act, VAWA, and workplace harassment are critical to ensure compliance, prevent misconduct, and cultivate safe environments across higher education institutions. Further, ensuring students understand Title IX, the Clery Act, VAWA, and harassment prevention policies is essential for compliance and community safety.

The Department of Justice provided an online portal for campuses and campus law enforcement to submit information electronically. Institutions were warned not to submit documentation containing personal identifying information (PII) in the reporting portal. Any information that was uploaded that contained information that could identify a complainant, or respondent was removed from the materials to protect the privacy of all individuals.

The statute only requires reporting of aggregate data on the "prevalence and nature" of offenses, of which the latter is not defined. The institutions have their own methods of classifying campus offenses which may or may not fit the categories the DOJ requested be used for reporting (rape or nonconsensual penetration, nonconsensual genital contact, and non-consensual physical or sexual contact, including attempts within each category). Accordingly, the DOJ deferred to the institution's classification of offenses and tallied them as submitted.

Employee training reporting is divided by faculty and staff, while student training reporting is broken down by newly enrolled students and at-risk student populations to better track with the categories identified in the statute. What constitutes an at-risk student is determined by each institution.

Institutional training curricula vary in the length, quality, and completion rates of training. To compare effectiveness, a standardized scoring methodology was developed. This framework translates qualitative and quantitative data into a consistent 1–5 scale, producing an Overall Effectiveness Score for faculty/staff and student cohorts that enables benchmarking across institutions. It emphasizes three critical dimensions: participation, training duration, and robustness of delivery.

Three primary dimensions were selected as the foundation of the scoring model:

1. Completion Rates

- Definition: Percentage of employees (faculty and staff) or students (newly enrolled or at-risk) who completed the training.
- Rationale: High completion ensures policy exposure and accountability among employees and ensuring exposure to rights, responsibilities, and support resources for students.
- Measurement: Faculty and staff completion percentages were calculated and averaged. Student completion percentages (newly enrolled and at-risk) are reported separately from employees.

2. Training Length

- Definition: Minimum and maximum time required for completion.
- Rationale: Adequate length indicates seriousness and ensures coverage of complex compliance content, while extremely short sessions suggest superficial coverage.
- Measurement: Average training length was calculated ($\text{min} + \text{max} \div 2$).

3. Training Robustness

- Definition: Depth, breadth, delivery format of training and interactivity (students only).
- Rationale: Robustness reflects whether programs are comprehensive, layered, and engaging. For example, multi-module training with live Q&A and legal compliance elements is considered more robust than a single presentation. Students, on the other hand, often need interactive, engaging training that addresses consent, bystander intervention, and support services.
- Measurement: Assigned qualitatively on a 1–5 scale, informed by content review.
 - 5 = Very comprehensive (multi-module, interactive, compliance-integrated).
 - 4 = Strong variety (multiple delivery methods, repeated reinforcement).
 - 3 = Moderate (standardized online modules, limited variety).
 - 2 = Minimal (short, single-session, limited interactivity).
 - 1 = Perfunctory (provides the bare minimum to meet the training requirement).

To allow fair comparisons across dimensions with different units (percentages, minutes, and qualitative measures), normalization was applied:

- Completion Score (1–5)
Based on the average of faculty and staff completion rates, the lowest institutional average completion was mapped to 1, the highest to 5.
The lowest-performing institution (UD: ~62.5%) was scaled to 1, and the highest (GBC: 100%) to 5, with everyone else proportionally in between.
- Length Score (1–5)
The institution with the shortest average training time received 1, and the longest received 5. All others were scaled proportionally.
- Robustness Score (1–5)
The lowest-performing institution providing the barest minimum of training to the highest-performers who provided a well thought out, multi-layered, interactive program. All others were scaled proportionally.

The three normalized scores were averaged to generate an institution's Overall Score (1–5):

$$\text{Overall Score} = \text{Completion Score} + \text{Length Score} + \text{Robustness Score} / 3$$

This formula ensures balanced weighting across dimensions, preventing one factor (e.g., very long training) from disproportionately skewing results. The overall methodology provides a defensible, replicable way to benchmark the effectiveness of training programs across institutions. By systematically evaluating participation, length, and robustness, strengths can be identified, weaknesses addressed, and safe, compliant learning environments can be fostered.¹

¹ The strengths of this methodology include:

- Transparency: Converts qualitative judgments into clear, comparable scores.
- Flexibility: Can be applied to faculty, staff, or student cohorts.
- Action-Oriented: Identifies specific levers (completion, length, robustness) for targeted improvement.

However, there are also inherent limitations:

- Contextual Variation: Training length alone does not guarantee effectiveness; content quality matters.

- Learning Outcomes: This model does not capture knowledge retention or behavioral change.
 - Self-Reported Data: Reliance on institutional reporting may affect accuracy.

Statutory Requirements

To address campus sexual assault, Delaware law (14 Del. C. §§ 9001A -9007A) requires Delaware colleges with more than 1,000 students to: offer to victims a process for reporting incidents of sexual assault perpetrated by or against a student to law enforcement authorities servicing the college, inform victims of their rights under the Victims' Bill of Rights, inform victims of available confidential medical and counseling services, and to report data to the state government to ensure compliance and measure the scope of the issue.

This law provides:

- "Responsible college employees" as defined in § 9001A(3) must offer to contact law enforcement or public safety staff if a student reports a sexual assault to them, and must contact law enforcement or public safety staff within 24 hours if the student accepts the offer.
- For purposes of this policy, a sexual assault is defined as "physical contact of a sexual nature perpetrated without consent or where consent is unable to be given".
- Victims must be provided or directed to a copy of the Delaware's Victims' Bill of Rights or a summary version thereof.
- Colleges must provide training to employees and students on sexual assault and the law. Training is required for new employees within three months of beginning work as a responsible employee. Refresher training is required for all responsible employees at a minimum of every two years. Training is required for all newly enrolled full-time students.
- By July 1 of each year, law enforcement agencies, colleges, and the Statistical Analysis Center must provide data on campus sexual assault to the Delaware Department of Justice, which will prepare a report for the Governor and General Assembly.
- These requirements apply to Delaware State University, Delaware Technical Community College, Goldey-Beacom College, University of Delaware, Wesley College and Wilmington University.

On June 30, 2025, the enforcement provisions of the statute went into effect. DOJ will receive and investigate reports and complaints of higher education institutions not complying with their requirements for dealing with sexual assaults on campus under 14 Del. C. §§ 9001A -9007A.

Examples of violations would include:

- A responsible employee of an academic institution informed by a victim of an alleged sexual assault who DOES NOT offer to notify law enforcement or public safety officials, when the alleged sexual assault occurred while the victim or perpetrator was on campus or was enrolled as a student at the academic institution.
- In the situation above, if the victim requests a report, and the employee DOES NOT make the report to law enforcement within 24 hours.
- In the situation above, the employee or the academic institution DOES NOT provide or direct the alleged victim to a copy of the Victim's Bill of Rights, or a summary version thereof approved by the Delaware Department of Justice.

- If law enforcement officers or public safety officials serving an academic institution receive a report of an alleged assault that took place outside of their jurisdiction but DO NOT within 24 hours of receiving the report, notify the municipal or state law enforcement agency having jurisdiction over the offense.
- A college subject to the law DOES NOT offer training regarding the prevalence and nature of sexual assaults on college campuses, the reporting requirements of state law, and the reporting requirements under federal Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 [20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq.] or regulations thereunder.

Reports of a suspected violation of 14Del. C. §§ 9001A -9007A by an academic institution can be made to the Department of Justice via webform, <https://attorneygeneral.delaware.gov/complaint-academic/>

Text of the Annual Report Statute

Title 14

§9006A Annual report.

- 1) By July 1 of each year, an academic institution is required to make a report to the Department of Justice detailing the following information for the prior academic year:
 - a) Certify its compliance with the training requirements of this section. The certification shall include information on training participation rates for faculty, staff, and students, as well as information regarding the format and length of training for each group.
 - b) Total number of reports of sexual assault made to the academic institution's Title IX coordinator. The report shall include aggregate data regarding the nature of the assault, the outcomes of any investigation, and any penalties enforced by the school against the perpetrator of a sexual assault where the assault was found substantiated.
 - c) Where the academic institution has law-enforcement officers or public safety officials of its own, that campus law enforcement agency shall provide the aggregated data of the number and nature of alleged sexual assault reports they received.
 - d) By October 1 of each year, the Statistical Analysis Center shall submit to the Department of Justice a report on the outcome or status of complaints of violations of §§ 767-773 of Title 11 where the alleged victim or the alleged perpetrator, or both, is a student of an academic institution and whether the alleged offense occurred on campus at an academic institution. The report shall cover the previous calendar year. The Statistical Analysis Center may work with the Delaware Criminal Justice Information System to create a mechanism for police reports of such complaints to indicate whether the alleged victim or the alleged perpetrator, or both, is a student of an academic institution and whether the alleged offense occurred on campus at an academic institution as defined in this section.
- 2) By December 15 of each year, the Department of Justice shall furnish to the Governor and the General Assembly all the information provided by each academic institution in subsection (a) of this section and the statistical information reported by the Statistical Analysis Center under subsection (b) of this section. This report shall be considered a public record and shall be posted on the Department of Justice website.

No reports under this section shall contain any personally identifiable information relating to the alleged victims or perpetrators of a sexual assault.

2024 Campus Compliance with Training Requirements

Each institution's 2024 certification of employee compliance is summarized below.

Institution Name	% Faculty Trained	% Staff Trained	Training Length	Format
Delaware State University	77.4%	88.7%	30 minutes	PowerPoint presentation delivered by the Title IX Coordinator, followed by a question-and-answer segment to clarify key policies and procedures.
Delaware Technical Community College	83.1%	67.4%	15 - 90 minutes	Power Point presentations and training facilitated annually delivered in-person or over Zoom by the Title IX Coordinator / Legal Counsel. Annual on-line training entitled "Preventing Sexual Violence Together" for all employees. Bi-Annual interactive training provided as a requirement of the Delaware Discrimination in Employment Act Training Program.
Goldey Beacom College	100%	100%	80 – 120 minutes	Faculty and staff received the Sexual Misconduct Obligation to Report form and a Human Resources representative explained their responsibility to report any known or suspected incidents of sexual misconduct, harassment, gender discrimination, retaliation, or other sex- or gender-based behaviors, including sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking; Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff training module; the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees training module, the Title IX, Clery Act, and VAWA training, and the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees course compliant with SB 360 training requirements.
University of Delaware	68.3%	56.8%	60 minutes	Customized online sexual misconduct training, "Building Supportive Communities - Clery Act and Title IX" and "Building Supportive Communities: Taking Action" online training modules were provided.
Wilmington University	80.1	78.6	60 – 235 minutes	A 235-minute comprehensive online training that covers essential topics such as Harassment and Discrimination Prevention, Title IX and the Clery Act. It encompasses critical reporting guidelines, definitions of consent, sexual assault, stalking, domestics and dating violence, and victim protections outlined by federal and state laws.

Assessment

GBC had the highest completion rate across the board, suggesting strong enforcement and accountability. UD had the lowest completion rates for both faculty and staff, indicating challenges in participation or compliance. DSU had a strong staff completion rate but lagged with faculty. WU and DTCC fall in the middle, with faculty training outpacing staff training in both cases.

	Employee Training Completion Rating	Training Length Rating	Robustness of Training	Overall Employee Training Rating
Wilmington University	3	5	4	4
Goldey Beacon College	5	4	5	5
University of Delaware	2	2	2	2
Delaware Technical Community College	3	3	3	3
Delaware State University	1	1	1	1

This report additionally examined the length and quality of the training provided to institutions' employees. When taken in totality, the training provided by Goldey Beacom College was the most comprehensive (Figure1).

- Best Performer: Goldey Beacom College – highest completion, robust, and substantial training length.
- Strong but Variable: Wilmington University – long and detailed training, solid completion rates, but perhaps risks engagement due to length and online-only format.
- Balanced Approach: Delaware Tech – diverse training types and decent completion, but staff training rates are weaker.
- Needs Strengthening: Delaware State – higher staff completion but short, less robust training.
- Needs Most Improvement: University of Delaware – lowest completion and moderate training robustness.

Figure 1

Each institution's 2024 certification of student compliance is summarized below.

Institution Name	% Newly Enrolled Students Trained	% At-Risk Students Trained	Training Length	Format
Delaware State University	65.5%	83.4%	90 minutes	Eight live, in-person training sessions. First-year students received live-virtual training sessions during the fall and spring semesters. Modules addressed sexual harassment, consent, healthy relationships, bystander intervention, and students' rights and responsibilities under Title IX. Each module concluded with an assessment to ensure comprehension and engagement with the content.

Delaware Technical Community College	68.1%	75.8%	5 – 45 minutes	Lecture-based presentation during "New Student orientation" delivered in-person and virtually by the Title IX Coordinator. Video, lecture, and case study during First-year Seminar delivered in-person or virtually by course instructor; a seminar delivered virtually by athletics staff and international education to new and returning student athletes and returning F-1 visa students; Monthly sexual misconduct awareness and preventions campaigns at each campus.
Goldey Beacom College	100%	100% ²	20 – 50 minutes	Students participated in the Building GBC Community training—Forming Healthy Relationships, Sexual Assault, Stalking, and Bystander Intervention. Each section included a 10-minute educational video followed by a brief multiple-choice assessment. Graduate students and returning undergraduate students, including those from at-risk populations, completed the abbreviated version of the training, featuring a 20-minute video addressing the definitions and types of sexual misconduct, guidance on effective bystander intervention, and instructions for reporting incidents to the appropriate College offices.
University of Delaware	86.5%	89.4%	60 minutes	All new undergraduate and graduate students are required to complete an online training entitled "Sexual Assault Prevention for Undergraduates and Graduates" that educates students about applicable sexual harassment and violence laws, sexual assault, consent, healthy relationships, relationship violence, bystander education, and more.
Wilmington University	100%	100%	20 – 150 minutes	First-time, full-time students received comprehensive interactive and online training covering critical topics such as sexual assault and harassment definitions, the prevalence of sexual assault, the meaning of consent, dating violence, stalking, how to respond if sexually assaulted, campus resources, bystander intervention, and alcohol safety. At the conclusion, students completed an assessment to test their knowledge.

² Goldey Beacom College (GBC) reported 617 at-risk students (260 student-athletes, 277 residential students, and 80 international undergraduate students), but this number may be inflated as some students may be represented in multiple categories. This duplication makes it difficult to accurately assess whether all at-risk students were trained.

Assessment

Goldey Beacom College and Wilmington University both achieved 100% completion across both student groups. University of Delaware had nearly a 90% completion rate. However, DSU and DTCC have lower completion rates, especially for newly enrolled students (65.5% and 68.1%, respectively).

	Student Training Completion Rating	Student Training Length Rating	Student Robustness of Training	Overall Student Training Rating
Wilmington University	5	5	4	5
Goldey Beacon College	4	4	5	4
University of Delaware	3	2	2	3
Delaware Technical Community College	1	3	3	1
Delaware State University	2	1	1	2

The best insights come with the bigger picture analysis (figures 2 and 3):

- WU achieves both full coverage (100% completion rate) and deep, broad training, with assessments ensuring accountability. Wide length range reflects tailoring by student type.
- GBC had excellent completion rates and reasonable content coverage. Their training is shorter, but assessments and tailored versions help boost its effectiveness.
- Good participation and solid coverage, but robustness is slightly limited by online-only delivery (no in-person or interactive component).
- DSU has one of the most comprehensive and robust training programs, but weak newly enrolled student participation undermines impact.
- DTCC conducts a good deal of outreach in different formats but doesn't seem to achieve deep coverage or high participation.

Figure 2.

Comparative Takeaways

- Completion Drives Impact: WU and GBC demonstrate that reaching all students is possible. Institutions with 100% completion far outperform peers regardless of training length.
- Robustness vs. participation trade-off: DSU offers rich training but fails to get enough students through it, while GBC offers shorter training but ensures everyone completes it. DSU demonstrates that robust training is insufficient if completion is low.
- Format affects engagement: Online-only programs (UD and in part DTCC) may deliver content efficiently but lacks engagement and depth compared to blended or in-person approaches. DSU's in-person approach is richer but harder to scale.
- Institutional Consistency: While WU and GBC ensure 100% coverage, DTCC and DSU leave gaps. The strongest institutions perform well across both cohorts, while weaker ones show systemic challenges that span students and employees alike.

2024 Institutional Sexual Assault Reports

Institution Name	Number of Reports of Rape, including attempts	Number of Reports of nonconsensual genital contact	Number of Reports of nonconsensual sexual or physical contact, including attempts	Total Number of Incidents Reported	Number of Cases Substantiated	Number of Penalties Enforced
Delaware State University	6	0	2	8	2	2
Delaware Technical Community College	0	16	0	16	0	0
Goldey Beacom College	0	0	0	0	N/A	N/A
University of Delaware	21	1	29	51	3*	3
Wilmington University	0	0	0	0	N/A	N/A

*There is still one case is under investigation.

Analysis

This chart offers a sobering snapshot of reported sexual misconduct incidents across Delaware higher education institutions. Key insights include:

- Variation in Incident Types
 - University of Delaware reported the highest number of total incidents (51), with a significant number involving rape (21) and nonconsensual sexual/physical contact (29).
 - Delaware Technical Community College shows a unique pattern: 16 reports of nonconsensual genital contact but no reports of rape or other sexual/physical contact. This could suggest a different reporting or categorization trend.
 - Delaware State University has eight total incidents, mostly rape-related.
 - Goldey Beacom College and Wilmington University report zero incidents, which could reflect either a lack of occurrences or underreporting.
- Institution Size/Context Matters
 - UD, as the state's largest institution with residential students, will naturally have higher numbers than smaller commuter schools like DTCC, GBC, and WU.
- Substantiation and Enforcement
 - There is a clear gap between reporting and substantiation. Despite high numbers of reports, substantiated cases and penalties enforced are relatively low
 - University of Delaware: three substantiated out of 51 reports or 5.8%.
 - Delaware State University: 25% of reports were substantiated (two out of eight).
 - Delaware Tech: zero substantiated out of 16.
 - Only six percent of all cases reported at Delaware institutions in 2024 were substantiated (five of 75).
 - This gap may point to challenges in investigation, evidence collection, or institutional response.
 - The low rate of substantiated cases could also reflect procedural hurdles, lack of resources, or institutional reluctance to pursue disciplinary action.

- The data underscores the importance of robust prevention programs, trauma-informed response systems, and transparent reporting mechanisms.
- Possible Underreporting at Small Institutions
 - Institutions with zero reports might not necessarily be safer. Students may feel discouraged or unsupported in coming forward.
 - GBC and WU reporting zero cases across multiple years is statistically unlikely given national prevalence estimates.
 - This suggests student awareness, trust in reporting systems, or cultural barriers may play a role.

5-Year Rate of Change

The five-year analysis of sexual assault reporting data from Delaware's higher education institutions shows significant fluctuations between 2020 and 2024. These changes align closely with the timeline of the COVID-19 pandemic (figure 4).

- In 2020–2021, most institutions shifted to remote or hybrid learning, with fewer students on campus.
- Fewer residential students, closed dorms, and limited social gatherings likely reduced the opportunities for sexual assaults to occur in the traditional campus environment.
- This aligns with the data:
 - UD dropped from 42 (2020) → 41 (2021) → 19 (2022).
 - DSU and DTCC also saw their lowest points around 2021.

However, the data does not only reflect the actual reported prevalence; it also reflects access to reporting systems and institutional capacity to respond. The findings suggest both a true reduction in opportunities for incidents during campus shutdowns and a suppression of reporting due to limited access to campus resources.

A sharp rebound in reports occurred as students returned to campus life in 2022–2023 (figure 5).

- As students returned to campus life in late 2021 and 2022, social activity (parties, residence halls, student gatherings) resumed.
- This often correlated with a spike in reported incidents nationally. The Delaware data mirrors this: UD jumped a dramatic 32% from 19 (2022) to 58 (2023) Similarly, DSU and DTCC also experienced a rebound effect after 2021.

Campus Law Enforcement Data

Institution	Reports Received by Campus Police	Alignment With Title IX Data	Number of Cases Where Enforcement Action Was Taken	Action Taken
Delaware State University	6	0	1	Reported to Parents and Delaware Division of Family Services
University of Delaware	25	10	3	Student-conduct penalties or no-trespass orders were issued after the investigation.

In 2024, University of Delaware (UD) Police documented 25 sexual-assault–related incidents. These included a mix of rape or attempted rape, non-consensual genital contact, and other non-consensual sexual or physical contact. Campus police served primarily as first responders and coordinators with the Title IX office. There were ten incidents were ones in which a police report and a Title IX complaint referred to the same underlying event.

Three of the UD cases led to formal student-conduct penalties, and in the same three cases no-trespass orders were issued to restrict the accused from campus property. The remaining cases either lacked sufficient evidence for prosecution or were closed after the complainant chose not to proceed.

At Delaware State University (DSU), the campus police logged six sexual-assault–related reports, most involving rape or attempted rape and two incidents of non-consensual sexual or physical contact. DSU police likewise provided immediate response and supportive measures, but no cases resulted in criminal prosecution or university disciplinary action. Investigations were frequently closed because victims declined to move forward. There was one instance where a mandatory referral to the state Division of Family Services was made, and the victim’s parents were notified in a statutory-rape matter.

Assessment

- Survivor-Driven Case Attrition
 - Most investigations stop because survivors choose not to proceed, even when campus police are involved.
 - This mirrors the statewide data where many student-related cases remain “pending inactive” or close with no prosecution.
- Role of Campus Police
 - Campus law enforcement primarily provides initial response, supportive measures, and referrals, rather than achieving criminal prosecution.
- No-Trespass orders and safety planning are the most common tangible outcomes at DSU.
 - Jurisdictional & Evidence Challenges
 - Several incidents involve off-campus suspects or non-student perpetrators, complicating jurisdiction and evidentiary standards for both campus police and local prosecutors.

Statistical Analysis Center Report on Criminal Offenses

Complaint Status Student Status	On Campus			Off Campus
	Adult Arrest	Pending	No Prosecution	Adult Arrest	Pending	No Prosecution
Student Victim/Student Suspect	1	4	0	0	1	1

Analysis

Of the 17 student-involved cases reported by the Statistical Analysis Center (SAC) in 2024, six were unfounded, and of the remaining 11, only two resulted in arrests, three were closed with no prosecution (largely victim-driven), and six remain pending. This underscores the low prosecution rate.

Even when students report, evidentiary issues and inconsistencies often prevent prosecution.

- The majority of cases (six out of 11) remain pending, suggesting delays in processing or investigative challenges.
 - One pending active investigation.
 - Five pending inactive (meaning no current investigative steps are being taken).
- Three cases were closed without prosecution. In all three cases the victim declined to press charges. This may be indicative of the need for better support services. In two of these three cases, prosecutors also declined to move forward citing lack of evidence or inconsistencies.
- This shows that more than half (six of 11) of the student-related cases are unresolved, with only a small fraction (two of 11) resulting in actual arrests.

Conclusions & Recommendations

Delaware institutions have done well in building training programs, but outcome disparities remain sharp. The clearest marker of success is universal completion, followed by content richness and delivery method. Strengthening weak links, particularly at UD, DSU, and DTCC, will improve statewide consistency and ensure compliance training has measurable impact across all populations.

The most notable takeaways are:

- Completion Drives Impact: Institutions with 100% completion (WU, GBC) far outperform peers regardless of training length. Even schools with weaker structures are at least ensuring broad exposure. This suggests faculty, staff, and students know what to report and how.
- Robustness vs. Reach: DSU demonstrates that robust training is insufficient if completion is low.
- Format Matters: Online-only training (UD, in part DTCC) may deliver content efficiently but lacks engagement and depth compared to blended or in-person approaches.
- Institutional Consistency: The strongest institutions perform well across both cohorts, while weaker ones show systemic challenges that span students and employees alike.

That said, a review of all of the submitted data shows that Delaware's higher education institutions are generally not facing a knowledge or reporting gap. Training and outreach have produced steady reporting volumes, particularly at larger institutions such as the University of Delaware. Instead, it appears it Delaware institutions face a process and outcome gap. The issue lies in what happens after a report is made. Universities like the University of Delaware receive dozens of sexual assault reports each year, but only a small fraction lead to student-conduct penalties or criminal charges. The current processes after a report fail to deliver accountability or deterrence.

Instead of just reporting on the number of people trained and number of incidents, institutions should additionally be required to include results-driven outcome metrics (time to investigation, evidence collected, substantiation rates, pending-inactive cases) to highlight where the system breaks down and provide actionable insights, in addition to the Clery and Title IX reports.

This may point out systemic barriers in investigation, evidence gathering, and survivor support. By focusing on the entire lifecycle of a complaint (disclosure to resolution), institutions can help close the gap between reports made and justice delivered.

Total Number of Responsible Employees

All employees and all members of the Board of Trustees of Goldey-Beacom College ("the College") are designated as "responsible employees." In 2024, the College had 220 responsible employees including employees and members of the Board of Trustees.

Total Number of Responsible Employees Trained

In 2024, all 220 responsible employees of the College received a Sexual Misconduct Obligation to Report form during their hiring process. A Human Resources representative reviewed the responsibilities associated with being a responsible employee, emphasizing their duty to report any known or suspected incidents of sexual misconduct, harassment, gender discrimination, retaliation, or other sex- or gender-based behaviors, including sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking. All new employees, excluding student workers, were required to sign this form to acknowledge their understanding. Since August 2017, all job descriptions have included responsible employee reporting duties, and this practice remains in place.

In May 2024, employees received a reminder of their reporting obligations via email, which was shared alongside updates regarding Title IX personnel. A second reminder was sent in December 2024, reinforcing these responsibilities and notifying the community of additional changes in institutional Title IX personnel.

The College continues to utilize courses offered through NeoGov Learn for employee training. In 2024, new employees were required to complete the following training:

- Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff
 - Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees

Employees designated as supervisors were also required to complete Harassment Prevention for Delaware Supervisors. These training courses are assigned every two years, and as such, only new employees and newly appointed supervisors were required to complete them in 2024. All other employees will be assigned to these training courses again in 2025.

In total, 40 new hires completed and passed the Sexual Harassment Prevention Training for Employees, and 5 new hires along with 4 newly appointed supervisors successfully completed the Harassment Prevention Training for Supervisors. Additionally, 45 new hires completed and passed the Title IX, Clery Act, and VAWA training. A broader Title IX Training session was conducted in person in May 2024, with 69 employees in attendance. Due to ongoing policy revisions from the Biden Administration, no additional Title IX trainings were assigned this year. Altogether, 114 employees completed the Title IX training either in person or virtually in 2024.

Number of Faculty Trained

In 2024, no new full-time faculty were hired. Only 3 full-time faculty members attended the Training Day.

18 new part-time faculty members were enrolled and successfully completed the Sexual Harassment Prevention Training for Employees and Title IX training. 6 part-time faculty members attended the Training Day.

27 Faculty members completed Title IX Training whether in person or virtually.

Number of Faculty Employed

In 2024, the College employed 17 full-time faculty (1 faculty member was on leave for the full calendar year) and 65 part-time faculty members.

Minutes of Training Provided to Faculty

The Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff training module is 20 minutes and the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees training module is one hour. The Harassment Prevention for Delaware Supervisors training module is two hours.

Description and Format of Training Provided to Faculty.

All faculty members received the Sexual Misconduct Obligation to Report form during their hire meeting. A Human Resources representative explained their responsibility to report any known or suspected incidents of sexual misconduct, harassment, gender discrimination, retaliation, or other sex- or gender-based behaviors, including sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking.

All employed faculty were assigned the Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff training module and the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees training module, to be completed remotely. The Title IX, Clery Act, and VAWA training ensures that faculty understand compliance requirements related to these federal laws and are prepared to recognize and appropriately respond to reports of sexual violence or discrimination from students or colleagues. The Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees course, compliant with SB 360 training requirements, educates faculty on how to identify, avoid, and respond to harassment, including sexual harassment and retaliation.

Faculty designated as supervisors were also assigned the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Supervisors course in September of 2024. This training equips supervisors to recognize discriminatory workplace practices or behaviors, identify harassing conduct, and take appropriate action to prevent harassment. This course is also fully compliant with SB 360 training standards.

Completion of all NeoGov training modules required a minimum score of 80% on the post- training quiz to be marked as complete.

In 2024, Sexual Harassment Prevention Training was assigned only to new faculty hires, in accordance with the State of Delaware's requirement that this training be completed every two years. Employees who completed the training in 2023 were not re-enrolled in 2024. Similarly, only newly hired faculty received Title IX, Clery Act, and VAWA training in 2024. Faculty members hired prior to 2024 were not enrolled in additional Title IX training due to ongoing policy revisions under the Biden Administration.

Additionally, faculty were reminded of their obligation to report on May 16 and December 1, 2024. These reminders reinforced institutional policies and served as updates regarding Title IX personnel and resources.

Number of Staff Trained

In 2024, a total of 123 staff members were employed at some point during the calendar year. As part of onboarding, 22 new hires completed the Sexual Harassment Prevention Training for Employees, while 5 new hires and 4 newly appointed supervisors completed the Sexual Harassment Prevention Training for Supervisors. Additionally, 3 non-supervisory staff members voluntarily completed the supervisor training for additional knowledge and resources, bringing the total number of completions for the supervisor training to 12.

In terms of Title IX compliance, 27 new hires were enrolled and successfully completed the Title IX, Clery Act, and VAWA training. Furthermore, 60 staff members participated in the College's Training Day, and by the end of the year, a total of 87 staff members had completed Title IX training either in person or virtually.

Number of Staff Employed

In 2022, the College employed 79 full-time staff members and 44 part-time staff members.

Minutes of Training Provided to Staff

The Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff training module is 20 minutes and the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees training module is one hour. The Harassment Prevention for Delaware Supervisors training module is two hours.

The Board of Trustees was provided their Sexual Misconduct Obligation to Report prior to their meeting on October 10, 2024. Additionally, information regarding their obligations was shared at the meeting itself and was included in the Board meeting minutes. Board of Trustees meeting of the reporting obligations for Trustees and included this information in the Board meeting minutes.

Description and Format of Training Provided to Staff

All staff members receive the Sexual Misconduct Obligation to Report form during their hire meeting. A Human Resources representative explains their obligation to report any known or perceived incidents of sexual misconduct, harassment, gender discrimination, retaliation, or other sex- or gender-based behaviors, including sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking.

Staff members are assigned training modules through NeoGov Learn, including Title IX, the Clery Act, and VAWA for Faculty and Staff and Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees. These courses cover compliance requirements under federal and state law, equipping staff with the knowledge to recognize and appropriately respond to incidents of sexual violence, discrimination, and workplace harassment. The Harassment Prevention for Delaware Employees course, compliant with SB 360 requirements, educates employees on identifying and preventing harassing behaviors and retaliation. Staff designated as supervisors also complete the Harassment Prevention for Delaware Supervisors course, which focuses on recognizing and addressing discriminatory practices and ensuring a respectful workplace.

All training modules require a score of 80% or higher on the post-training assessment to be marked as complete.

In accordance with the State of Delaware's two-year training requirement, Sexual Harassment Prevention Training was not reassigned in 2024 to employees who completed it in 2023. Only new hires were enrolled in Sexual Harassment Prevention and Title IX training during 2024. Staff hired prior to 2024 were not re-enrolled in Title IX training due to policy revisions under the Biden Administration.

Additionally, all staff received reminders of their obligation to report, and at the October 2024 meeting of the Board of Trustees, the responsibilities of Trustees as responsible employees were reaffirmed.

Number of Newly Enrolled Students

In 2024, the College had 311 newly enrolled undergraduate students, and 190 newly enrolled graduate.

Number of Newly Enrolled Students Trained

In 2024, all 311 first-year undergraduate students completed the required training through a combination of the FYE 100 course—taken prior to the start of the semester—and the residence hall move-in requirement. Of these students, 272 were residential, and completion of the training was mandatory prior to their arrival on campus. This accounts for nearly 87% of the first-year undergraduate population living in residence halls.

To ensure full participation, virtual training was offered beginning in April and again in August for students unable to attend in person. This option supported the completion of training for 26 newly enrolled undergraduate students (8.4%) and 7 graduate students, representing approximately 3.7% of the 190 newly enrolled graduate students.

The New Student Orientation, attended by both residential and commuter undergraduate students, included programming that highlighted campus resources and provided guidance on how to report incidents of sexual violence or discrimination. As part of the College's First-Year Experience course sequence, all 311 first-year students also completed a one-credit, one-week seminar. This seminar featured an intensive, in-person session led by the Title IX Coordinator and the Clery Compliance Officer. The session provided a comprehensive overview of Title IX, the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), and the Clery Act, and covered key definitions and expectations related to sexual misconduct, including sexual assault and sexual harassment.

Number of At-Risk Student Populations Trained

In 2024, the College identified its at-risk populations as student-athletes, residential students, and international undergraduate students. Out of approximately 260 student athletes, nearly half were first-year students, representing a significant portion of the at-risk population. Members of each group participated in both virtual and in-person training, though completion rates varied. To ensure broader outreach, the College continued to offer virtual training beginning in the spring and continued throughout the summer.

New Student Orientation for both residential and commuter undergraduate students included programming focused on campus resources and guidance on how to report incidents of sexual violence or discrimination. Since the inception of the First-Year Experience course sequence launched in fall 2022, it requires all first-year students to complete a one-credit, one-week seminar. As part of this course, students participated in a mandatory in-person session facilitated by the Title IX Coordinator and the Clery Compliance Officer. This session provided an overview of Title IX, the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), and the Clery Act, and included definitions and expectations related to sexual misconduct, such as sexual assault and sexual harassment.

Due to the limitations of the prior training platform, where content remained largely unchanged over several years, the College has made the decision to transition to a new training platform, SUNY Student Conduct Institute (SCI). This change is expected to improve student engagement and significantly increase completion rates for future training initiatives.

Number of Students in At-Risk Populations

In 2024, the College enrolled 260 student-athletes, 277 residential students, and 80 international undergraduate students. It is important to note that some students may be represented in more than one category, as individuals can hold multiple identities, such as being both a student-athlete and a residential student, or an international student living on campus.

Minutes of Training Provided to Students

Newly enrolled undergraduate students completed a 45–50-minute online training, while returning students were assigned a shorter 20–25-minute version. During summer, New Student Orientation for both residential and commuter undergraduates included sessions highlighting campus resources and outlining the process for reporting incidents of sexual violence or discrimination. Additionally, students enrolled in the one-credit, one-week First-Year Experience seminar received in-person training as part of the course curriculum.

Description and Format of the Training Provided to Students

As part of the College's commitment to creating a safe and informed campus community, students participated in the Building GBC Community training, which was delivered in two formats: the Undergraduate Module and the Student Module. New undergraduate students completed the Undergraduate Module, which was divided into four key sections—Forming Healthy Relationships, Sexual Assault, Stalking, and Bystander Intervention. Each section included a 10-minute educational video followed by a brief multiple-choice assessment.

Graduate students and returning undergraduate students, including those from at-risk populations, completed the Student Module. This abbreviated version of the training featured a 20-minute video addressing the definitions and types of sexual misconduct, guidance on effective bystander intervention, and instructions for reporting incidents to the appropriate College offices.

To successfully complete either module, students were required to achieve a minimum score of 80% on the associated assessment. Both modules provided background on Jeanne Clery and the Clery Act, offering important legislative context for Title IX and Clery compliance at the College. Additionally, each training included “Helpful Links” directing students to the College’s Annual Security and Fire Report and the contact information for Title IX Coordinators. These training modules remain a central component of the College’s ongoing prevention and education strategy.

In addition, the New Student Orientation for residential and commuter undergraduate students, held over the summer, included sessions focused on available campus resources and the procedures for reporting incidents of sexual violence or discrimination. Students enrolled in the one-credit, one-week First-Year Experience seminar also received in-person training as part of the course, further reinforcing key concepts and responsibilities related to community safety and support.

Protecting Minors on Campus

The University of Delaware requires individual staff and organizations serving minors that operate on campus to register the number of minors on campus through the Protection of Minors department housed in the Office of Equity and Inclusion. The Protection of Minors' Policy requires organizations to take required and affirmative steps to lessen the risk of potential harm to minor participants. Program Organizers must agree to comply with UD's Protection of Minors Policy, including reporting their program to the Minors Liaison, conducting regular criminal background checks and child protection registry checks on all Program Staff, providing appropriate supervision for participants, and strictly observing the training requirements and standards of conduct required by UD's Protection of Minors' Policy.

Under UD's Protection of Minors' Policy, all program staff working in any capacity with a minor on campus must complete the online Protecting Youth Training by Vector Solutions. The training is a one-hour online module that is scenario-based and focuses on better management practices when working with minors. The training must be completed annually and must be completed prior to working on-campus with any minors.

During the 2024 calendar year, there were 2,014 Protecting Youth training completions by UD faculty and staff for the Protection of Minors Program. UD registered 277 Programs for Minors' sessions, and there were 14,944 minors served on campus in 2024.

Also, during the 2024 calendar year, Third-Party Organizations registered 69 programs serving minors and 8,375 minors on campus. Third-Party programs complete an attestation that program staff have completed criminal background and child protection registry checks and protecting youth training for their program staff.

Description and format of training provided to faculty:

From January 2024-June 30, 2025, 1129 faculty members completed the Harassment and Discrimination Training. This number includes new faculty members and those who were due to complete their biennial training. An engaging and interactive training program was provided to all new and current faculty at the time of hire with biennial refreshers. Delivered by Vector Solutions, this 235-minute comprehensive online training covers essential topics such as Harassment and Discrimination Prevention, Title IX and the Clery Act. It encompasses critical reporting guidelines, definitions of consent, sexual assault, stalking, domestics and dating violence, and victim protections outlined by federal and state laws. The program also provides an in-depth exploration of sexual harassment under Title VII law and highlights how unaddressed behaviors and attitudes can escalate into workplace violence. Additionally, the course equips employees designated as "Responsible Employees" and "Campus Security Authorities" (CSA's) with specific guidance on reporting requirements. It aims to raise awareness of harassment and discrimination while offering practical guidance on how to respond to and report misconduct, with a clear emphasis on the University's strict "no retaliation" policy for reporters. The training further supports the creation of a safe, inclusive work environment by offering actionable bystander intervention strategies and tips on maintaining workplace safety. New faculty members are required to complete this course upon hire, while all current faculty must complete it biennially. Managers receive specialized training that covers not only what constitutes harassment but also the common challenges employees face when reporting it, along with the frequent mistakes managers make when addressing harassment and discrimination.

Additionally, the Title IX Coordinator led a 30-minute virtual presentation for all Academic College Chairs. This session provided an overview of Title IX, the University's policies and procedures, including Wilmington University's Policy and Procedures for Addressing Sex-Based Harassment, and Delaware law. The presentation covered critical topics such as state and federal definitions, the prevalence of sexual assault, sexual harassment in online environments, and employee reporting requirements. Faculty members designated as Campus Security Authorities (CSA's) received a 20-minute supplementary training through the University's online Learning Stream. This course detailed the types of crimes

CSA's are responsible for reporting, where to report them, information on the VAWA crimes, Title IX, and Wilmington University's broader obligations under the Jeanne Clery Campus Safety Act. Throughout the year, the University conducted a series of educational awareness campaigns for students, faculty, and staff, focusing on key themes such as Domestic Violence Awareness Month, Alcohol Awareness Month, Sexual Assault Awareness Month, Bystander Awareness Month,

Dating Violence Awareness Month, and Stalking Awareness Month. These campaigns featured the distribution of awareness bracelets and educational resources, including email blasts offering quick tips, links to further information, and resources specifically addressing each awareness campaign. During Stalking Awareness Month and Sexual Assault Awareness Month, the Title IX Coordinator hosted Cupcakes and Conversation where participants would answer questions about the awareness month topic and receive a cupcake. This encouraged discussion between participants and the Title IX Coordinator. In collaboration with the Center for Teaching Excellence and Human Resources, the Title IX Coordinator ensured that information related to Title

IX and the awareness months was regularly featured in the bi-monthly Faculty Newsletter and monthly Human Resources Employee Newsletter. Faculty were also informed of virtual participation opportunities for each campaign, with educational materials and resources made accessible through Human Resources and Student Life. In September, the University joined other colleges in Delaware to observe Delaware Sexual Assault Awareness Day. As part of this initiative, faculty were provided with educational resources on sexual assault and encouraged to wear teal in support. Teal bracelets were distributed at key locations across campus for faculty members. Comprehensive information about Title IX was made available to all faculty through the WilmU intranet, including links to the "Nine Things to Know about Title IX" video and the University's dedicated Title IX webpage.

Number of Staff Employed	From January 2025-through June 30, 2025, 464 staff members completed Harassment and Discrimination Training. This number includes all new staff and those who were required to take their biennial training. An engaging and interactive training program was provided to all new and current staff members at the time of hire with biennial refreshers.

This 45-minute virtual training offered an overview of Title IX and the Clery Act, focusing on federal and state regulations, University policies, and procedures. The training also addressed dating and domestic violence, stalking, and sexual assault, with staff learning how to respond effectively when student-athletes report incidents. Topics included the neurobiology of trauma and available victim resources, with case studies illustrating scenarios related to dating violence, sexual assault, stalking, and reporting requirements. New coaches of the Athletics Department who work with youth athletic camps were required to complete the "Stewards of Children" course, provided by Darkness to Light. This training equips employees with tools to reduce instances of child sexual abuse by teaching empowerment skills and introducing the "5 Steps to Protect Children" framework, which can be applied in various scenarios. Staff members designated as Campus Security Authorities (CSA's) received a 20-minute supplementary training through the University's online platform. This course detailed the

MEMORANDUM

To: Attorney General Jennings; Department of Justice
From: Philisa Weidlein-Crist, Director; Statistical Analysis Center Subject:
House Substitute 1 to House Bill 1 of the 148th General Assembly

House Substitute 1 for House Bill 1 of the 148th General Assembly established the Sexual Assault Policy for Institutions of Higher Education. As a requirement under Title 14 §9006A(b), the Statistical Analysis Center (the Center) is responsible for submitting a report on the outcome or status of complaints involving violations of Title 11 §§767-773 where the alleged victim and/or perpetrator is a student of an academic institution, as defined in Title 14 §9001A(1), and whether the alleged offense occurred on or off campus property. The data contained in this report refers to the number of complaints where the victim and/or suspect is a student as defined in the above statute. It is important to note that a single complaint may have multiple victims and/or suspects. This memo serves as the Center's report to the Department of Justice pursuant to this legislation.

As the basis for this analysis, the Center extracted complaint data from the Delaware Criminal Justice Information System to identify possible Title 11 §§767-773 offenses reported in calendar year 2024. Due to the large number of complaints for these types of offenses it was necessary for the Center to restrict its manual search for student victims or suspects to those in the range of 17 to 30 years of age. This range was selected to narrow the focus to complaints that would most likely include college age subjects.

The data collection resulted in 265 complaints that the Center manually reviewed for alleged victim and suspect information. The manual review resulted in 17 complaints that had an explicit reference to the alleged victim and/or suspect being a student of an academic institution that occurred in calendar year 2024. Six of the 17 complaints were unfounded. The table below provides a breakout of the remaining 11 complaints and their status where a victim and a suspect were identified.

Complaint Status Student Status		On Campus			Off Campus
Student Victim/Student Suspect		1	4	0	0	1	1

Of the 11 complaints involving college students with events occurring in 2024, 3 resulted in no prosecution, adult arrests were made in 2, while 6 remain pending (1 Pending Active, 5 Pending Inactive). Of the 3 complaints closed with no prosecution, 3 complaints involved a victim who declined to press charges, and 2 complaints prosecutors declined to pursue charges due to lack of evidence and/or inconsistencies on the part of the victim or witness.
